B2B Database Vendor Evaluation Overview

To understand and assess the core criterion required to evaluate the best database service providers for your business.

Evaluation Criteria:

The core clusters requisite for vendor evaluation are categorized under three high-level segments:

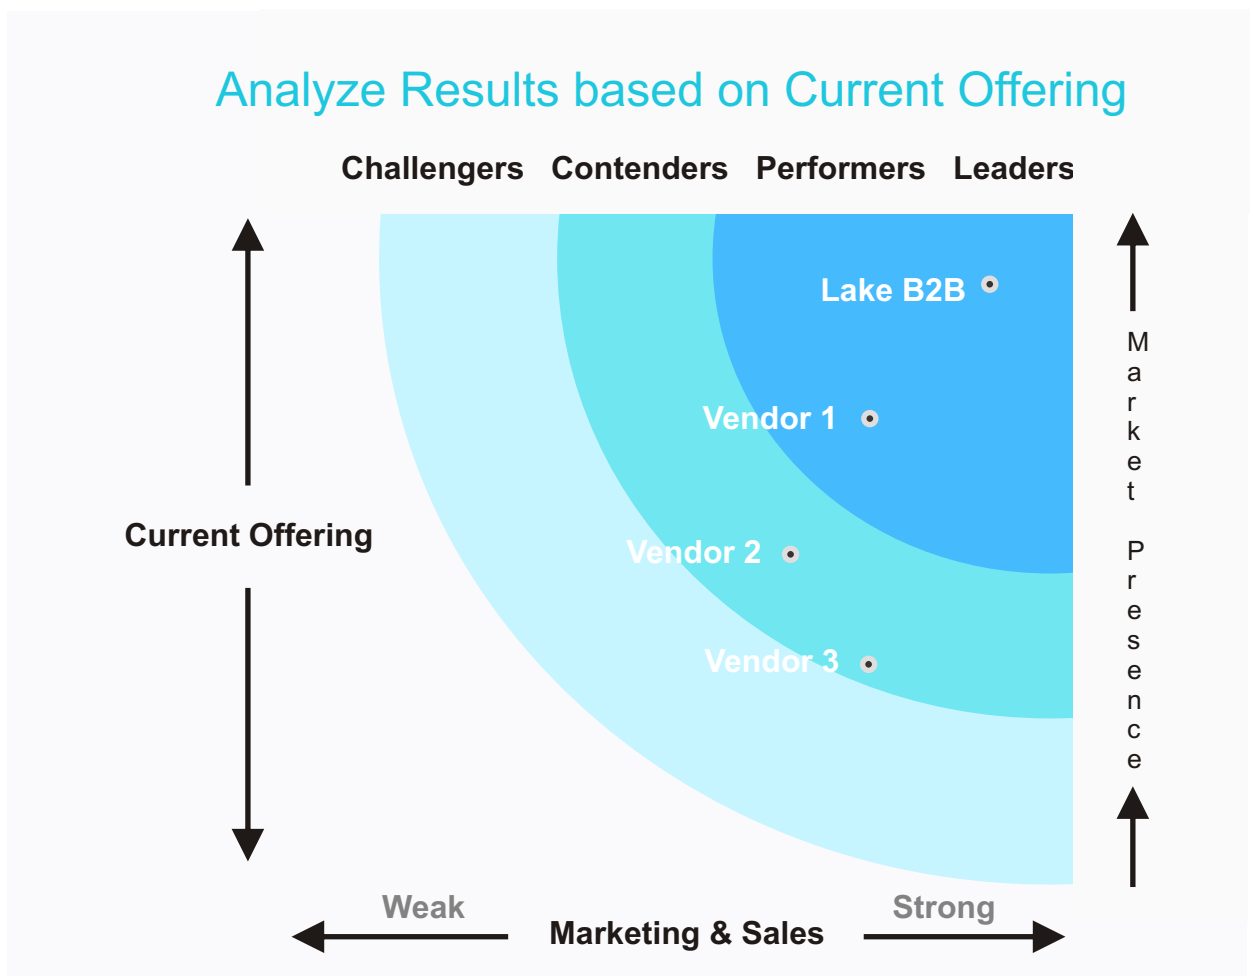

Current offering: This criterion helps to examine each vendor's solutions for data maintenance, management and enrichment.

Marketing & Sales: This criteria examines each vendor's ability to craft data driven marketing and sales services and gauge how well it aligns with the needs of marketers in current times.

Market presence: This segment assists in assessing each vendor's market presence and position as reflected by the size and retention rate of its client-base and the distribution of clients, and services worldwide.

The best database vendor can be screened based on the following criterion:

- A standalone DMP (Data Management Platform) offering
- Data management services and solutions
- Data driven marketing and sales
- Technology, Healthcare, Publishers and Advertisers as clients
- A minimum of 100 live clients
- Growth of at least 40 net new clients over the past 12 months

How to go about Evaluation:

Conduct a primary research to develop a list of vendors that meet the core criterion to be evaluated in this market. Develop the criterion after examining past research, client needs, assessments, and also make sure to include vendor and expert interviews.

Choose your sample size and narrow down your list of contenders. Screen these vendors based on product services and solutions and customer success. Eliminate vendors that have limited customer references and products that don't fit the scope of the evaluation.

Evaluate the vendors and their offerings against the set criteria, gather details of services, solutions, and products through a combination of lab evaluations, questionnaires, demos, and discussions with client references.

These default weightings are intended only as a starting point, and we encourage readers to adapt the weightings to fit their individual needs through relevant and authentic tools. The final scores will generate the top database vendor apt for your business based on the current offering, strategy, and global market presence.
